

The Journey to Belonging in the Twin Cities

PROMOTING FULL PARTICIPATION IN CIVIC, CULTURAL AND ECONOMIC LIFE IN THE TWIN CITIES

Policymaker Statements

“Minneapolis’ immigrant and refugee communities are irreplaceable in the vibrancy of our communities and economic competitiveness. The data shows our immigrant and refugee neighbors are central to true inclusive economic recovery and this plan maps out an opportunity to think differently and advance equitable and accessible solutions. The strength and vitality of our immigrant and refugee communities is a foundational element of our path forward – a path that must be focused on coming together to build out an economic ecosystem that is a more inclusive place to live and do business. We are grateful to the Twin Cities Gateways for Growth Leadership Team for developing this comprehensive report and bringing the importance of our immigrant and refugee communities into clearer focus.”

MINNEAPOLIS MAYOR JACOB FREY

“Saint Paul’s long history of welcoming new residents into our city is a proud tradition we carry forward today. As we work to create an even more safe, welcoming and inclusive community, keeping this promise means ensuring our city remains a place where every resident can thrive, and feel a sense of belonging. This plan will inform and assist our continued development of policies and programs that support our immigrant and refugee communities alongside our ongoing work to meet the housing, economic, neighborhood safety and workforce development needs in our community.”

SAINT PAUL MAYOR MELVIN CARTER

Leadership Team Joint Statement

The Minneapolis Regional Chamber, City of Minneapolis, City of Saint Paul, and St. Paul Area Chamber are honored to have participated in the Gateways for Growth initiative. This strategic planning process has confirmed what many of us already knew – immigrants and refugees are essential to our economic competitiveness. We also know that immigrants and refugees face significant barriers when it comes to access to economic opportunity, affordable housing, culturally competent care, civic engagement, and much more. We are grateful for the opportunity to lend our expertise and networks to the development of a plan that aims to make the Twin Cities a more welcoming region for all residents. By creating an infrastructure that welcomes and celebrates the contributions of immigrants and refugees, we are making an important investment in the future of the Twin Cities.

Introduction

The impact of immigrant and refugee residents on the economic, social and civic life in the Twin Cities cannot be overstated. When immigrant and refugee residents are welcomed and find a sense of belonging in our cities, the positive impacts are experienced by all communities. Identifying how to foster that sense of belonging is the principal focus of this report.

In 2019, the immigrant and refugee population of the state of Minnesota was estimated at 476,556 people, making up 8.5% of the total population of the state¹. This includes an estimated 60,500 people in St. Paul (19.9% of Saint Paul's residential population)², and an estimated 63,300 residents in Minneapolis (14.9% of Minneapolis residential population.)³

In the fall of 2020, Saint Paul (the City of Saint Paul, with its supporting partner the St. Paul Area Chamber), and Minneapolis (the Minneapolis Regional Chamber, with its supporting partner the City of Minneapolis) each received separate technical assistance grants from the Gateways for Growth Initiative (G4G). G4G is a partnership between the organizations Welcoming America and New American Economy (now American Immigration Council). The G4G awards included the preparation of two new data reports entitled "New Americans in Minneapolis," and "New Americans in St. Paul and the East Metro Area" (Page 20).

INTRODUCTION CONTINUED

Data from these reports show that immigrant and refugee populations in Minneapolis and Saint Paul have grown significantly in recent decades, and that immigrants and refugees make substantial contributions to the social, economic, and cultural life in the Twin Cities. In the economic area alone, immigrants and refugees represent 15.8 % of the employed labor force in Minneapolis and 22.2% of the employed workforce in Saint Paul as well as 13.2% of the business owners in Minneapolis and 33.2% of the business owners in Saint Paul. Workforce development is critical to the stability and growth of the Twin Cities' and the Minnesota economy, and will only be strengthened and fostered through a welcoming infrastructure that connects Minnesota employers with this growing immigrant and refugee workforce and supports immigrant and refugee businesses. More details from these data reports appear in the section entitled Data Reports in Depth. (The complete reports can be found in the Bibliography.)

The Cities of Minneapolis and Saint Paul are dedicated to fostering communities that are welcoming to all regardless of race, ethnicity or place of origin. Through the development of the Office of Immigrant and Refugee Affairs in Minneapolis and the Immigrant and Refugee Program in Saint Paul, both Cities have initiated programming that promotes community health and stability, public safety, economic vitality and growth.

The Twin Cities area is experiencing dynamic and transformational changes creating an incredible opportunity for healing and growth. This inclusion plan is a starting point for a more robust welcoming infrastructure that fosters a sense of belonging in Minneapolis and Saint Paul. Additional voices and energy are invited, welcomed and encouraged to help make Minneapolis and Saint Paul cities where all residents can achieve success, thrive, and prosper.

Summary of Engagement Process

The engagement process began in the spring of 2021, set against the profound and ongoing societal impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic and the many effects following the killing of George Floyd in May 2020. Each city's engagement began with initial meetings to introduce the Gateways for Growth opportunity and invite interested individuals and organizations to join an Advisory Committee. Twin Cities residents were in shock and exhausted and those emotions were reflected in preliminary conversations.

In addition to identifying the impacts of ongoing community trauma, participants expressed frustration at what was being described as “over-engagement” without ever seeing input reflected in a final product. There was an understandable skepticism regarding whether this initiative would result in tangible outcomes benefiting the Twin Cities immigrant and refugee community. An additional complication was that each municipality's initiative was inviting the same organizations and communities to join their initiative, doubling the time commitment for stakeholders who ultimately formed the Advisory Committee. Leaders of the Saint Paul and Minneapolis Gateways for Growth initiatives recognized that establishment of a joint Twin Cities Advisory Committee was a more efficient use of stakeholders' time and talents to develop recommendations in this report. In pursuing a joint engagement strategy, the leadership team held one on one conversations with representatives and leaders from community, community based organizations, academic institutions, business community, legal service providers, refugee resettlement organizations and governmental offices at the municipal, county, and state level (including libraries). These individual conversations led to the creation of the Twin Cities Gateways for Growth Advisory Committee.

Development of trust was an integral part of engagement. The scope of commitment for the Advisory Committee was three monthly meetings with a goal of developing a strategic plan while honoring that the final product would be a living document meant to be amended and changed in real time in response to current realities and community input.

Engagement Timeline and Summary

Once a joint Saint Paul/Minneapolis Advisory Committee was established, the Leadership Team reviewed the Welcoming Standards and consolidated those standards into the following four thematic areas as a starting point for discussions with the Advisory Committee:

CONNECTED COMMUNITIES

ECONOMIC AND WORKFORCE

EQUITABLE ACCESS TO

Recommendations

GOALS AND STRATEGIES FOR IMMIGRANT AND REFUGEE INCLUSION

The New American Reports helped the Leadership Teams and the Advisory Committee to develop the following goals and strategies for immigrant and refugee inclusion in each of the four thematic areas: Connected Communities; Safe Communities; Equitable Access to Education Housing and Healthcare; and Economic and Workforce Development. Brief descriptions of each thematic area are contained below, followed by a set of goals and strategies within each.

1. CONNECTED COMMUNITIES

Build connections between newcomers and long-term residents by strengthening relationships and communicating shared values.

GOAL 1

Foster a sense of belonging and increase awareness of immigrant and refugee cultures and contributions.

STRATEGIES

1. Promote Cultural Destination Areas (Saint Paul)/Cultural Districts (Minneapolis) as a driver of economic vitality and increased awareness of immigrant and refugee cultures and contributions.
2. Create, expand, and provide additional resources to trusted messenger, ambassador, and navigator programs within local government and community-based organizations to identify and communicate information and opportunities to share with immigrant and refugee communities.
3. Increase cultural community awareness within receiving community, specifically by increasing opportunities to:
 - Share meals
 - See and interact with people who are different on positive and equitable grounds
 - Share current and timely information on immigration status so people have a better understanding of the different types of immigration status that immigrants and refugees hold.

GOAL 2

Improve language access, cultural competence, and communication to better connect communities.

STRATEGIES

1. Hire and compensate individuals with cultural competency through lived experience, including multicultural awareness and multilingual skills.
2. Increase funding for accurate translation and interpretation support with the goal of centralizing in-house translation and interpretation services in city, county and state level offices.

GOAL 3

Ensure all residents are fully able to participate in civic, economic, and social life.

STRATEGIES

1. Support acquisition of immigration status, including naturalization, by increasing awareness about the benefits of naturalization and creating greater access to financial, legal, and educational resources to overcome barriers to gaining immigration status.
2. Facilitate an understanding among all residents of civic rights and duties, how to participate in the electoral process, and how to engage with elected officials.
3. Establish municipal Immigrant and Refugee advisory councils/committees in Minneapolis and Saint Paul as a means for community voices to inform governmental decisions and policy making process.
4. Support access to drivers licenses/state identity documents for Minnesota residents, regardless of immigration status as a tool for promoting public safety and building trust with the community.

Foster trust and build relationships between long time residents, newcomers and local law enforcement, and safety agencies, and additional first responders.

GOAL 1

Encourage strategies that address and combat hate crimes.

GOAL 2

Improve relationships between law enforcement and diverse communities.

GOAL 3

Incorporate lessons learned from the COVID-19 pandemic to develop and strengthen inclusive emergency management and pathways to recovery.

STRATEGIES

1. Provide opportunities for education and outreach on what a hate crime is, how it can be reported, and how local stakeholders can help in reporting a hate crime.
2. Engage with the community to address root causes of hate crimes while continuing and increasing support for victims.
3. Re-examine enforcement strategies in the criminal justice system

STRATEGIES

1. Increase funding and training around cultural competency in police departments.
2. Provide general education about interactions with law enforcement via Safety Academies (crime prevention, visas, separation ordinances, ways to avoid negative interactions with law enforcement, etc.)
3. Educate the community and provide information about how interactions with law enforcement can and may result in immigration consequences.
4. Support access to drivers licenses/state identity documents for Minnesota residents, regardless of immigration status as a tool towards promoting public safety and building trust with the community.

STRATEGIES

1. Maximize available funding to:
 - Invest in programs to help people experiencing behavioral health crises with a health-first approach instead of a law enforcement one.
 - Fund housing opportunities for people impacted by community violence.

2. Ensure existing governmental Inclusive Emergency Management Plan includes immigrant, refugee, and New American communities.
 - Conduct community assessment to identify unique needs and assets of different community groups in the context of an emergency.

Advance self-sufficiency and wealth-building among immigrants and refugees to generate economic growth.

GOAL 2

Promote workforce pathways for individuals to access job and career advancement opportunities.

STRATEGIES

1. Utilize existing resources and business mentoring for successful onboarding, training, development, and career advancement of the immigrant and refugee workforce.
2. Create culturally informed environments that lead to workforce retention such as:
 - Offer access to transportation for employees
 - Include prayer and meditation spaces within offices and job sites
 - Offer no-interest microloans
 - Create or expand leadership development training opportunities
 - Hire managers and supervisors with cultural competency through lived experience, including multicultural awareness and multilingual skills
3. Create pathways through public institutions of higher education for financial literacy and skills training opportunities.

GOAL 3

Foster incorporation of high-skilled and advanced degreed immigrant and refugee residents into the workforce.

STRATEGIES

1. Create short-term paid apprenticeships so that people with foreign experience and education can develop required skills.
2. Examine what other states have implemented to permit educated professionals from other countries to be licensed, including in the healthcare industry and create a pathway to equivalence for foreign earned credentials to allow a speedy pathway to employment.
3. Work with local organizations to connect residents with skills obtained abroad with employment opportunities in Minnesota.
4. Advocate to improve the H-1B visa and employment-based permanent residency program.

Next Steps: Implementation Plan

Twin Cities immigrant and refugee communities are not bound by jurisdictional lines. For this reason the recommendations above are regional in nature and not city-specific. The next phase of this initiative will require each City to review these recommendations and identify implementation priorities reflecting each City's current situation and resources.

In addition to city specific strategic planning, successful implementation will depend upon regular participation of a wide range of voices, from city residents to policy makers, business leaders and nonprofits, community based organizations, academia, members of faith based communities, immigration legal service providers, philanthropic community as well as other interested community members. Also paramount to successful implementation of these recommendations is the recognition that this inclusion plan is a living document that represents the first phase of a multiyear initiative to rally Twin Cities community members to take an ownership interest over the plan, develop metrics to track progress, set city specific priorities, and identify resources to support implementation of the goals and strategies identified in this document.

Regular opportunities for community members to convene for implementation focused events will ensure that progress can and will reflect the ongoing dynamics of each city's immigrant and refugee community.

The following priorities were identified as especially critical for immediate action:

- Increase the number of residents in Minneapolis and Saint Paul that obtain United States Citizenship through naturalization.
- Increase opportunities for immigrant and refugee communities to obtain competent legal advice on immigration legal issues.
- Support the creation of a statewide "Office of New Americans."
- Promote Cultural Destination Areas (Saint Paul) / Cultural Districts (Minneapolis) as a drivers of economic vitality and increased awareness of immigrant and refugee cultures and contributions.
- Create new and elevate existing entrepreneurial toolkits, resource guides and entrepreneurship hubs, all of which should be accessible in multiple languages and non-internet-based formats.
- Create, expand, and provide additional resources to trusted messenger, ambassador, and navigator programs within local government and community-based organizations to identify and communicate information and opportunities to immigrant and refugee residents.
- Develop infrastructure across sectors (business, philanthropy, academic, faith based, civic organizations, governmental) to support new large scale resettlement.
- Create pathways and remove barriers so that community voices can more effectively inform municipal policy impacting immigrant and refugee residents
- Develop additional short term, intermediate and long term implementation objectives and performance metrics for tracking progress.
- Development of mid and long term goals, strategies and metrics will require continued collaboration between the Cities, Chambers, and additional community stakeholders.

Conclusion

The engagement process that resulted in this plan brought people together for challenging conversations and created avenues and frameworks to develop trust and inspiration. The immigrant and refugee inclusion strategies advanced in this plan identify opportunities for change and healing that, if seized and embraced, will ensure that the cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul move beyond welcoming and towards a future where all city residents, regardless of place of origin, feel a strong sense of home and belonging. The Leadership Teams are immensely grateful for the time, energy and commitment that the individuals and organizations involved in this process dedicated to creating this plan.
