Hello Joanna,

I just want to confirm that everyone is aware that our redemption period does not expire until 8/9/2023. It will not be until that time that we can pull permits to start the rehabilitation work at the property but intend to maintain the property through that period. This would put our timeline for completion of the work at or around 1/31/2023. The estimated time for completion would be roughly 5.3 months for a job this size. This is only since we will not own the property until the redemption period ends. If there is anything you all could do to assist with shortening of the redemption period, we would be more than willing to start the work sooner. Please advise. My apologies for misunderstanding. I thought we would have 180 days from the time the redemption period expires. Please let me know if these adjustments can be requested to be made prior to meeting with the city council to request this timeframe. We typically, don't run into these types of issues with delaying our rehabilitation of a property as it is in everyone's including our best interest to repair and get the property on the market ASAP, but with the county having restrictions on HECM foreclosures and the redemption period our hands are tied with regard to the timeframe we can operate under our normal rehabilitation processes. Please let me know if this can be considered as previously discussed in the legislative hearings.

Thank you.
