Hi Bailey, been trying to

Hi Bailey, this is maintenance. We are trying to dispatch a tech to look at the heat and light. Please be aware we can't wait to schedule. If you submit a work order, you're giving us permission to enter. If we had to wait for everyone's schedule, we'd never get anything done.

I've tried working with you and your office, letting you come in while my wife and I weren't there and our things were damaged. Your office is always closed, no one answered the emergency line over the holiday, I give you days I'm available which never work for you apparently, but my things getting destroyed doesn't work for me. Being walked in on while I'm showering doesn't work for me. Your office couldn't even get our heat turned on by the date deemed necessary according to law. You don't get to just treat people however you want and act like their life and their things and their privacy and security don't matter. Cancel whatever you want. You've already canceled the light one twice, not due to my "inconvenient schedule," I don't know why, Your office just does whatever it feels and thinks that's okay. It's not. I have rights.

Hello Bailey and Rachel,

As the new maintenance communications person, I am unhappy with the way our interaction ended today. We are a busy company. You need something fixed, and it's our job to do it. It isn't our job to cater to specific schedule requests. On your tenant page there is a notification which states, and reiterates, that when you make a maintenance request of us, you are giving us your permission to enter.

We are both going to have to give a little to make this right. This morning, I tried to be respectful and accomidating of your wishes, and that got us nowhere. Your bathroom still has no light. Are you able to provide for me a time window which would ALWAYS work? For example, weekday mornings, where we could call, notify you, and come in to get the work accomplished. If so, I can put a tag on your profile that at least states your preferred window.

That is the best I can offer.

Thank you,
Kathy

Attention Residents,

For the next three weeks, the Housing Hub maintenance team will only be addressing emergency repairs and heat related maintenance. This is due to recent rises in work order loads and unit turns. Emergencies are considered no heat, water leaks, or sewer back-ups/clogs, or any issues that may cause damage to the property or danger to the tenant.

Please refrain from submitting non-emergency work orders at this time. Any other work order that is not an emergency we will ask you to resubmit at a later date. Housing Hub will resume regular maintenance services on November 7th, 2022.

Please feel free to take a look at our YouTube channel to learn easy fixes for common maintenance problems that you can do on your own.

We are sorry for any inconvenience that this may cause. Housing Hub appreciates your understanding and cooperation at this time.

Attention Residents,

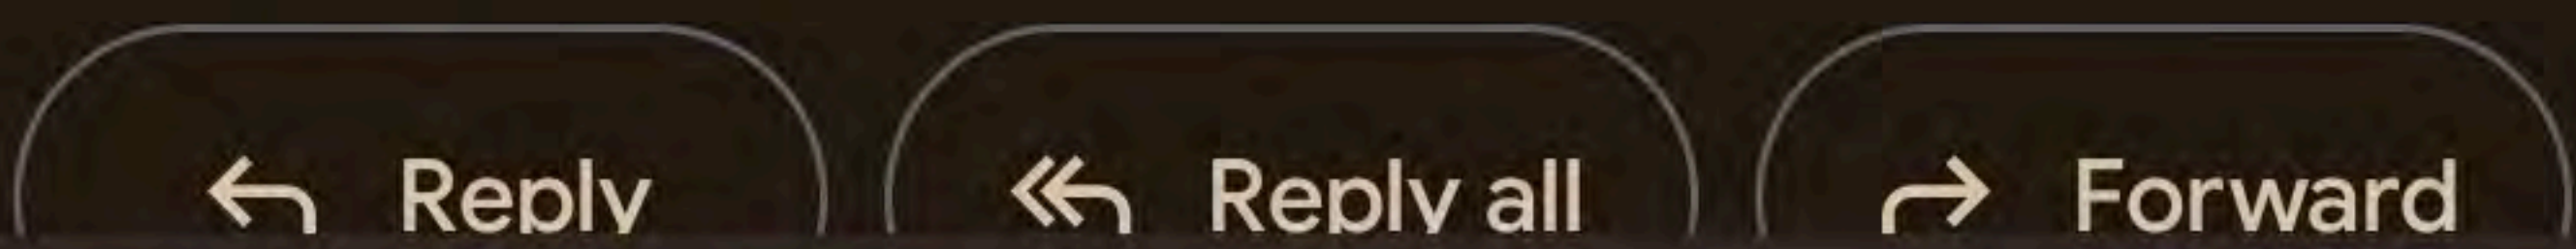

With recent rises in work order loads, unit turns and being short staffed with maintenance techs, we will only be responding to emergency work orders for the time being until we can get caught up. Emergencies are considered no heat, water leaks, or sewer back-ups/clogs, or any issues that may cause damage to the property.

Any other work order that is not an emergency will be completed eventually, but do not expect a quick response time.

We are sorry for any inconvenience that this may cause.

Thank you,

Previous downstairs tenants keep breaking in

This is the second day they have come back and gotten in. Yesterday was the first time and now today we come home from work and see this, the window open and the A/C unit tossed onto the porch. That was not like that this morning when we left. I don't know if you guys changed the locks but even so, they are getting in and out through the window. This is very scary that they would have the audacity to that. At this point, they no longer live here. This is criminal behavior.

Hello Bailey and Rachael, I have received your message and after I looked up the property I found that the tenant below 'is' seeking housing and did not move out yet. I have acknowledged all of your concerns and taken your calls. All the documentation has been recorded. I am not aware the dog poop in the back yard is all still there and still has not been cleaned or that the dog is still not on a leash. Well this is all the reason why this tenant is non-renewed because of these lease violations.

No one here at Housing Hub has not lied to you and we have no reason to do so. When a tenant does not follow the policies then they are asked to leave. Then there is the legal aspect. I can not do anything about the smoke right now because our hands are tied. We are handling this nuisance and we are following the move out process constantly.

Attention Residents,

With the recent rapid rise in COVID cases, we will only be responding to emergency work orders until the first or second week of January. Emergencies are considered no heat, water leaks, or sewer back-ups/clogs, or any issues that may cause damage to the property.

Please do not submit non-emergency work orders until that time. Any non-emergency requests submitted before then will be canceled.

We are taking these temporary measures for the safety of our staff and our tenants.

Bailey,

I received your voicemail. The very first email reply to you on 11/2, I asked you for the license plate # or make and model of the truck. You replied that you were leaving the house because of the bees to get the info and instead, sent us a photo of the truck. It is our policy to notice the building before towing any vehicles, therefore, we used what we had which is what you gave us.

If you are having issues with the vandalism, you would need to make a police report. You may choose to take the suggestion of not, but that's up to you.

I have notified the maintenance supervisor about your request to reschedule your work orders. In regards to the pest control, Laurie may be able to reschedule, but there could be a rescheduling/trip charge from pest control. I don't know. Laurie- Can you chime in on that?

Thank you,

Bailey,

We absolutely need to send photos of vehicles requested to be towed. We always go out and survey the area and take pictures. This is company policy. I'm sorry you feel that the picture we sent caused your tire to be popped. If you feel you have strong evidence that the tenant down below caused the damage you should file a police report.

Housing Hub has done nothing but respond to your request and demands. If you feel you have a better way to complete your demands we are all ears.

Your vulgarity and tone on your voicemail is unnecessary. Let's keep it cordial so we can get your issues resolved.

Thank you,

Hi Sebastian, we reached out to housing hub today and we were told that housing Hub as a company, no specific individual, act as the property manager for our rental unit. They don't have a general email address, our plan is to mail it to the main office. We do also have some personal email addresses from a couple of people that work for housing Hub, should we also send the 14 day notice to those emails or should a printed copy sent through the mail suffice?

I am setting up a time with our pest control vendor to come out and treat for mice and wasps. I will let you know when they can get there.

The owner wanted me to send you a copy of the certificate of occupancy which was issued September of 2020. The invoice for the duct cleaning that was done for you this summer is also attached.

The owner is working on addressing your other concerns. thank you,

These people at housing hub are playing so dirty. When we moved in, we were told by the leasing agent that someone would come in and clean the unit before we occupied it. That was never done, but he did get a duct cleaning company to come out and clean the ducts. It was never mentioned to us once but now all of a sudden they are wanting us to pay for it. The ducts were a fire hazard. We weren't comfortable even turning the heat on in the condition they were in. They sent us a certificate saying the property passed fire safety inspection but there's no way considering how the basement and attic look. We don't feel that we should be responsible for the duct cleaning because isn't that part of what maintenance does? Also about the housing inspector. Do we call him and have him evaluate the property now, or after the maintenance requests are supposedly finished or both? Also how do we go about finding whether or not the Landlord is licensed? They claim they'll have everything on the list done in the next 3 days.

Re: 14-day Notice for Repairs needed for 696 Conway St. Apartment 2, St. Paul, MN 55106

Dear Housing Hub

I am a tenant living at 696 Conway St. Apartment 2, St. Paul, MN 55106. Minnesota Statute § 504B.161 requires that every landlord of a residential premises do the following:

- 1) keep the premises and all common areas fit for the use intended by the parties;
- 2) keep the premises in reasonable repair during the term of the lease or license;
- 3) maintain the premises in compliance with the applicable health and safety laws of the state.

These "covenants of habitability" cannot be waived.

This email hereby gives you notice of my demand that certain repairs be made to 696 Conway St.

Apartment 2, St. Paul, MN 55106 to comply with the covenants of habitability. Specifically:

-Issue One: Exhaust needed in the bathroom. There is no ventilation so everything stays wet constantly, this is a mold hazard.

Issue Two: Under the trim and the corner in the shower in the bathroom need to be checked for mold as it is not properly sealed, and then needs to be sealed to prevent mold.

Issue Three: Shower spigot is not secure in wall and needs attention.

Issue Four: Every window needs a screen; a screen that fits and stays in place securely.

Issue Five: Windows need to be able to stay propped up on their own. They randomly drop down and it's a hazard.

Issue Six: Windows are not sealed properly. Draft

99+

Issue Six: Windows are not sealed properly. Draft comes in when they are closed. Also when it rains water leaks through the windows in the master bedroom. This needs to be addressed.

Issue Seven: Back door is not sealed. Waters leaks in from underneath the door when it rains. The door is not airtight whatsoever. This needs to be fixed.

Issue Eight: Basement and attic are a serious fire hazard. The tenants that have been living here before us have left it in deplorable condition, it's unsafe, I have been unable to use those "shared spaces," since I moved in. These areas need to be dealt with and the furnace also needs routine maintenance.

Issue Nine: The ceiling in the master bedroom does not look secure and seems to be collapsing. Also, on the wall right below that part of the ceiling, we've noticed bubbles appearing under the paint when it rains, signifying a leak somewhere in that area. This needs to be fixed.

Issue Ten: Circuitry is terrible, every outlet on the right side of the house is wired to a single fuse so when I plug something in its a game of chance as to whether or not there will be a short, and there are not enough outlets in each room to plug anything in elsewhere. This needs to be corrected.

Issue Eleven: The wooden staircase in the back of the house is in very rough condition. It's shaky, the railing leans under pressure, it's dead wood, close to rotting, there are sharp edges, nails sticking out in several places. This staircase needs to be sturdy and safe.

Issue Twelve: There is a wasp infestation outside the living room window. We believe it has made its nest inside the foundation of the house. They are coming through the window, or the vents, it's hard to tell which. Also we've heard mice scratching and chewing things in the walls and ceilings. All of this needs to be inspected and corrected.

Issue Thirteen: The register cover for the vent on the chewing things in the walls and ceilings. All of this needs to be inspected and corrected.

Issue Thirteen: The register cover for the vent on the floor of the kitchen is not secure. It's lifted in some spots causing sharp rusty corners, and other spots are worn so thin, one wrong step could send me falling through it. This needs to be addressed.

Issue Fourteen: The motion sensor light needs a new bulb and the timer needs to be adjusted, the light goes out way too quickly.

Issue Fifteen: The tile in the kitchen is not completely sealed, especially underneath the kitchen sink, where there is a huge gap. Tiles are lifted, uneven and sharp, I've been cut on my foot numerous times. This needs to be fixed.

Issue Sixteen: Gas line to the oven/stove needs to be checked. There is a very strong odor of gas that is emitted when using this appliance. It needs to be assessed.

Issue Seventeen: When the heat is turned on it smells like cigarette smoke. No one in my unit smokes but the people downstairs do and they have clearly been doing it inside their unit for quite some time. I do not want my belongings getting damaged by nicotine and should not have to smell smoke from my vents. This needs to be fixed.

Issue Eighteen: The ceiling in the room with the fridge seems to be collapsing. This needs to be assessed and fixed.

Issue Nineteen: The metal trim in the doorways is lifted and had nails sticking up out of the floor. This is dangerous and needs to be fixed.

This notice is given per Minnesota Statute §504B.385, and if repairs are not completed within 14 days, we plan to file a rent escrow action in court.
Sincerely,

Bailey, Thank you for calling today, we want and need to take care of lease violations as soon as we can even if the tenant has been living there a while does not give them any authority to break the lease terms. I see the Pitbull is grandfathered in by the previous owner, However lease violations is not tolerated. Should any issues arise again please call me at 651 488-2437 EXT. 111

Renting from Housing Hub was the worst living experience of my life. Please read the reviews and note that most of the five-star reviews are for a single maintenance worker and not the company as a whole.

We had a neighbor who would get into loud screaming matches and sometimes physical fights while her children were present. After police were called, she proceeded to yell threats in the hallway and scream at other tenants to come out and fight her. We complained about this situation in writing to Housing Hub five times over the course of three months. They did not respond. Upon receiving legal advice, we had to resort to filing a rent escrow action against the owner, Wafa Capital. Once we informed Housing Hub of the action, all of a sudden they started to investigate what was going on. But Housing Hub's communications with the owner and internally were so terrible that the owner apparently didn't know about the action and did not appear at our first hearing, where we were fortunately let out of our lease. Despite having been served the action and informed that we had paid our rent in escrow to the court, Housing Hub continued to send messages that if we did not pay our rent, we might be evicted.

Then there were the squirrels. We had squirrels

Then there were the squirrels. We had squirrels running around in our ceiling every day. They began coming INTO our apartment through a hole in the ceiling and we had to constantly be on alert to chase them back into the hole. Despite knowledge of a hole in the roof where the squirrels were coming in, the only option Housing Hub gave us was to have poison put in our ceiling. Given that squirrels were coming into our apartment, this really put our cat in danger, but we did not have another choice. One day while we were out, a poisoned squirrel came into our apartment while our cat was home alone. Luckily, we came back earlier than expected and were able to kill the squirrel with a broomstick. It was only at this point that Housing Hub put netting on the hole in the roof. Unfortunately, another squirrel got stuck in the bathroom ceiling and died there.

Even without these deal-breaker problems, this was not a great place to live. When the heating system was on it would get to over 90 degrees in our apartment. We had to open our windows when it was below freezing outside. Then the heat would randomly turn off and we would have to wear a coat inside. A few days before we were moving, we had to go to the basement for a tornado siren and the entire basement started flooding. It was just the cherry on top.

I would not recommend renting from Housing Hub, particularly if the property is owned by Wafa Capital. If you are a current resident having issues with Housing Hub, I would having issues with Housing Hub, I would recommend calling Home Line for free legal advice.

Edit: regarding Housing Hubs response. I submitted my first written complaint October of 2021. It was not until January 2022, after many complaints, including by mail, after we had filed the rent escrow action, that they started to investigate what was happening.

After reading this review, Housing Hub went back and looked at our records. We can confidently say we did everything we could in regards to your dispute. When living in community settings, sometimes unfortunate situations arise. We always document everything and speak with both parties involved. Housing Hub did all we could to mediate the conflict between tenants. In regards to the property itself, Housing Hub always seeks and is obligated by the owners approval before addressing maintenance issues unless it's causing immediate danger to the tenants. We apologize that your experience with Housing Hub did not meet your expectations. We take your feedback into consideration when looking into improving our processes.
