Hello Jonelle,

Thank you for reaching out regarding your recent bill. I understand how the charges could be confusing, and I'm happy to clarify.

While your request to update the service to one large cart collected weekly was noted, cart sharing was not available until January 1. Because of this, the recent bill you received reflects Q3 billing (October–December), during which the prior service configuration was still in effect. As a result, the charges for four 35-gallon carts every other week were correctly applied for that billing period.

Now that cart sharing is available as of January 1, your account has been updated accordingly. You will see the corrected service level reflected on future bills going forward.

Please let us know if you have any additional questions—we're happy to help.

Thank you,

Megan

Apologies for my mis-type,

While your request to update the service to one 35 Every-Other Week cart was noted, cart sharing was not available until January 1. Because of this, the recent bill you received reflects Q3 billing (October–December), during which the prior service configuration was still in effect. As a result, the charges for TWO 35-gallon carts every other week were correctly applied for that billing period.

Thank you,

Megan

Thank you, Megan. Please note that we only put out 1 small bin every other week. I'm happy to return the second bin that I haven't used for over a year. Shall I look for a new bill in the mail? Or can you email me what the new charge is?

Jonelle
