LEGISLATIVE HEARING DISCUSSION ITEM

- 35 RLH VO 24-9 Appeal of Lakeisha Lee to a Correction Notice-Reinspection Complaint (which includes condemnation) at 273 COTTAGE AVENUE WEST. (Public hearing closed and laid over from April 10, 2024)

Public hearing closed and laid over for one week, with the condition that the building remain unoccupied.

Also in attendance: Lakeisha Lee, appellant

Marcia Moermond, Legislative Hearing Officer: This is an appeal of a condemnation order, in this case because of a roof leak and other leakage, causing issues with wall stability and electrical damage. The owner occupant had been experiencing this get worse in slow motion. They turned it into a rental property and tried to use the funds from that to make fixes, but the fixes are beyond what is doable with a modest income from a rental. A lot of life circumstances have converged as well to make this situation almost intractable. We talked in Legislative Hearing and again earlier today. She does not contest the condemnation. She's not looking for an extension. The house was to be vacated last Friday and it was vacant when inspectors were there yesterday. What remains are questions about public policy that she has, and she also wants to share her experience. I just wanted to give that background before I turn it over to her.

Lakeisha Lee: I wanted to express, as a lifelong St Paul resident, that I don't want to leave. I want you to know what is happening. My house has been condemned because of storms. I had insurance to cover the repairs, but my claims have been denied. My parents live within a mile. My neighbors had insurance claims approved, but my insurance claim was not approved as a single black mom. I have 3 kids. The health issues associated with the unsafe living conditions have also affected us, such as with asthma. I've been through counseling and gotten help from different groups. I help advocate and support others. I'm a leader my community for supporting black women and girls, and now turning and looking for support. I'm getting rejected and declined. Whatever resources are there to help are not working for me. This has been a problem for the last 5 years. I'm working hard to sell the house and start anew. We're couch hopping now. My parents live within a mile. We're there. My son's dad has housing assistance so he's able to add him. Me and my kids can't be there though unless we're added on, so it's keeping our family apart. It's hard for the kids to finish school. It's hard for me to have stability, including with employment. I just want you all to know how tough it is.

Council President Jalali: Can you tell us what repairs are still needed, what's the status of them, and what is your ask for us? Is it more time?

Lee: I want to get this house out of a place of condemnation. I was looking for resources for the roof and electric work. I started with an electrical quote route, and then there was a grand total including what I was also quoted for the roof. I've had some insurance claims so I know that there've been quotes for that, and I've been told it's a cost of about $20,000. I've contacted the emergency loan program. I gave them the necessary information. I let them know of the things that were needed. They said I'd be reached out to, but I haven't heard back. I know this might not be the exact space to say I need more time, but I need more time. I don't know what the opportunities there are, but I just want to make sure you guys are aware of what's happening. I've reached out to Abdihamid (Ward 5 Legislative Aide) and left a voicemail about getting some helpful resources.

Jalali: So, there's the roof and electrical work. Was there something else? I want to know what's needed to get this up to code.

Lee: The electrical and the roof are the two main things. There's some other things like a stairs railing that I would also need assistance with.

Councilmember Noecker moved to close the public hearing. Approved 5-0.

Noecker: Thank you for testifying today, Lee. I appreciate you sharing your experience. I support Moermond's recommendation of denying the appeal, because the home does seem unfit for human habitation. If walls and floors and roofs are unstable, it is not safe to live in. I think the Ward 5 office can help you get the resources you need, and I am happy to help as well. That needs to be done from a place where you are safe, though. I would move to support Moermond's recommendation. I know if your councilmember was here right now, she would very much want to help.

Councilmember Bowie: I'm hearing from Lee a request for more time, and that she has done her due diligence in looking for assistance. I also heard mentioned that the last case scenario would be to just outright sell it. So if you can just clarify what is the cost value of the conditions?

Moermond: The roof and the electrical systems are compromised and need fixing. We don't know how much other damage there is. The water damage could be much more extensive than what's currently understood. If I were to guess, hearing that it's between $25,000 and $50,000 with what we know, it could be much worse after finding out everything that needs fixing. In terms of an ask for time, Lee and I discussed this in the hall. The questions to Council are: "Should the house be condemned as unfit for human habitation?" and "When is the day for it to be vacated?" This case was created because it was an emergency unsafe circumstance, and the house is vacated already. Timing of being emptied doesn't really play there. The bigger time question that will probably be forthcoming to Council has to do with it being referred to the Registered Vacant Building Program, and its associated fees. We talked a little bit about that process and how it is also appealable. That's all coming down the line later.

Jalali: I have some concerns. I don't want the appellant in unsafe housing. However, I want to balance that with a plan for improving the property. I want them connecting to the Ward 5 council office. Does condemnation prevent City resources from being used to help? I don't want to cut off that help.

Moermond: I don't know where rental rehabilitation assistance would come into play with this vacate order. I know that needs to be asked. I know this is a complex situation with complex needs (financial, mortgage, family, etc). I think this will require the staffing that a ward office could pull together.

Jalali: I'm not comfortable approving this without a clear plan. Our Ward 5 councilmember and her staff are not here. I think the recommendation from Noecker makes sense, but I want there to be clarity on a plan. I want Lee to be connected with someone from Ward 5 before we vote. I welcome other thoughts, though. Is a layover an option?

Councilmember Johnson: Has Ward 5 been briefed on this?

Moermond: I talked with Legislative Aide Abdihamid Badri for about a half hour. He is looking into resources. He was also present for our meeting in the hallway earlier today. The concern right now is that the building be empty while these resources are discussed.

Johnson: I share Jalali's sentiments. My legislative aide is available to help also. I'd be willing to lay over for a week if that's an option.

Jalali: I would support Noecker's motion if we had a plan in place. If we could wait a week to make that plan, I would prefer that.

Noecker: My concern is that no one be in danger. I support having a plan. I thought we needed to get this done today to keep the building empty to avoid anyone being in danger.

Moermond: If you wish to lay this over, I ask that you do so with the condition that the house continue to be vacant and unoccupied.

Noecker: I would like to move a layover with that condition.

Councilmember Yang: I have two questions. First, when is the deadline for the repairs? Second, how would laying it over and keeping it empty be different than condemnation?

Moermond: I'll answer your second question first. The resolution before you says that Council would deny the appeal. That's my recommendation. In the body of the materials connected to the resolution, you will see that I made a finding that an emergency decision needed to be made. This happens sometimes when a property is condemned and we don't want to leave the matter as an unknown for too long. Situations involving kids can have this happen. You as the Council can disagree with that finding I made. The appellant has said she agrees that conditions do merit condemnation as unfit for human habitation. Regarding a plan to fix the house, I think that's the next stage. My immediate concern is for the appellant and her family to have stable housing. There is a lot involved with financially planning and deciding what to do. We need housing counselors and people with good bank backgrounds to help.

Bowie: I support extending this to next week until Councilmember Kim is here. This relates to a previous discussion we had in Organizational Committee about affordable housing, and we can do good work there. I won't be here for a vote next week, but I definitely think we should be proactive. I don't feel comfortable voting today. I don't want to walk Lee into the condemnation program with a repair costing upwards of $50,000 and walk her into a cycle of debt with additional $5,000 bills annually. It sounds like she's trying to figure this out, and staff can continue working on this. I don't have an aide, but can work with the Ward 5 and 7 aides to find organizations that can help.

Jalali: To clarify things, Councilmember Noecker withdraws her motion of approval and instead moves to lay over for one week, on condition that the house remain vacant. The Ward 5 office needs to take responsibility for supporting Lee as a constituent. We all can be as helpful as we want to be, but they should be the point people on this.
