Marcia,

I left a vm. I read the info. I am not sure it matters who did the work. The fire code needs to be met. The area way is in place as a private structure in public space. I see there was a cost share that met council agrees to. In my opinion (but I am not a lawyer) is that the code must be met. The area way is there for private use of public way by permit. I was not involved in any cost split issues between met council and PO. Seems that if PO want to pursue action with met council that is their prerogative.

I am copying in Lisa Veith.

This is the case I need help with, if there's anything you can share from a PW perspective:
