Dear Council President Mitra Jalali,

I am reaching out to you today because right now, St. Paul doesn't have an equitable way to ensure that our ordinances are followed.

When St. Paulites come together to pass important ordinances like Earned Safe and Sick Time, Minimum Wage, and Rent Stabilization, we expect that employers and landlords will follow these policies and, if they don't, the City will ensure that they do.

This has high stakes. Almost half of the residents in Saint Paul are residents of color. The majority of renters in our city are renters of color. We also know that enforcement mechanisms that skew towards criminalizing tends to hurt communities of color the most. To uplift our commitment to racial equity, we must take seriously enforcing our local ordinances to make sure all in our city are protected across race, class, and ward. We also want to be intentional about using just enforcement mechanisms that do not over criminalize people. Administrative Citations is an important policy to achieve these outcomes.

I support Administrative Citations so that the city has better, fairer tools in the enforcement toolbox and we have mechanisms to hold employers and landlords accountable. I appreciate that you have publicly expressed support for administrative citations and ask that you vote YES for ordinance 25-2. I thank you for your leadership.

Sincerely,
Michelle Armstrong-Spielberg

Dear Councilperson Jost,

I'm writing to encourage you to rewrite the citation law before passage, to say that the revenue realized from a citation not go to the department that imposed it. This seems like a good way to avoid overuse or misuse. I like the idea to put it into an equity fund, suggested by Cassandra Lloyd. With this, I am encouraging you to vote Yes for this policy.

Thank you for your work on the city council.

Sincerely,
