Hello, thank you for taking the time to look over my case. I was appealing the three "CO Residential 1&2 Units No Entry Penalty Fee" on my fire certificate of occupancy bill. I was told to wait until it reached assessments and appeal the charges. Attached is my email chain to change my address right away, I have also called the city about my address last year. I have also paid the Initial fee for fire certificate- I would have paid it earlier but the system did not allow me to pay for it separate from the no entry penalty fees until it was sent to assessments.

Thank you and have a great weekend,
Rebecca Nguyen

I understand the frustration. I can say, do not feel defeated yet, I believe you have a great defense to appeal the fees.

Thank you for the guidance Alex, I am just bothered that Kelly did not update my address right away to avoid all of this confusion, I just feel like it is not my fault. The original address was just one number off of my address. I will try to appeal but feel defeated.

Thank you again for examining this case!

So that was quicker that I expected. Upon review, they determined that the fees are correct. I suggest you follow through with appealing the fees, using the case that you had not received the letters due to moving, USPS failures, ect when you go to hearings. That may work in your favor, considering you have had three inspectors attempt inspections in the span of less than a year, with at least two address changes.

Thank you, I have sent them up the chain and recommended two of the three no entry fees be removed, due to the address update failure, they may only approve one, so please be mindful of that. Either way, they will send you an updated bill when the decision is made.

Hi Alex,

Thank you for checking on that- here is my email, I emailed them right away after the fire inspection was scheduled and I did not receive the letter in time.
