Dan,

A company called to state their roll-off dumpsters are currently used for either mixed municipal solid waste or construction debris dependent upon what the customer states will be put in the dumpster. They do not have separate dumpsters designated for each type of material. Their customer is told what type of material can be put in it when the dumpster is delivered, and they confirm the material meets applicable requirements at the time of pick-up and dispose of it in accordance with the rules regulating their industry. They believe it would be a great burden on their business if they were required to now maintain a separate inventory of dumpsters designated with permanent signage for each type of material that may be put in the dumpster.

I told him I would pass along their concern to you.
