

An anonymous neighbor called to state that the storage container in question has been on the premises for approximately 4-5 years, creating both an eyesore and potential problems as an atypical storage unit on residential property for an extended period of time. They feel that the resident has had more than ample time to purchase and install an outdoor shed and are simply delaying action.