To whom it may concern,

Legacy Exteriors completed a roof inspection for leaks per homeowner. All roof systems in place and no leaks found. The roof appears to have normal wear. There are some items on the roof that are frozen to the shingles that will be removed when it thaws. They pose no immediate threat to the roof but I did not feel comfortable pulling them off the shingles as they were frozen to them and doing so could cause some damage to the integrity of the shingles.
