Graffiti Removal Tips

Graffiti breeds more and more graffiti! Immediate cleanup is recommended!

- General Tip: If you want to paint over graffiti, first prepare surface with KILZ which comes in spray can or brushing form. This will seal the graffiti, and keep it from bleeding through the new paint. If the area to be painted is small (one or two tags) use KILZ first, then you can spray paint the area with a color that closely matches the original wall. Sometimes you will notice that an entire wall will have to be painted over because just merely patching with paint almost looks worse than the graffiti tags.
- Brick, Cement, or Concrete: Use extra strength paint remover. Apply with a wire brush or some products come with a sprayer. Scrub area with wire brush, and then allow it to dry. Rinse with a forceful stream of water from a hose. Some surfaces may have to be done twice or more!
- Stucco: Apply extra strength paint remover. Seal area with KILZ and then paint over the area with stucco paint. If the affected area is hit with numerous tags or pieces (large designs), you should sand blast the wall. Sandblasters can be rented for approximately $65 per day. Or you can contract with a professional sandblaster who will charge according to the size of the wall. Some damage is likely to occur, regardless of which method is used!
- Aluminum Siding: GOOF OFF works quite well on latex paint, but not on oil-based paint, Oil-based painted siding can be cleaned up with either KEAN STRIPP or STRIP X, but sparingly and carefully!
- Wood: On latex or oil-based painted wood use KILZ to seal the graffiti. Paint over thickly so the graffiti won't bleed through. If the area is stained and varnished, use Kean Strip with sprayer, wipe off with cloth rag.
- Fiberglass: Use paint remover such as KEAN STRIP or STRIP X or GOOF OFF full strength and rinse carefully. Carburetor cleaner also works well.
- Glass or Plexiglass: Use carburetor cleaner and a cloth rag.
- Metal: Try carburetor cleaner first. If this doesn't work, use KEAN STRIP or STRIP x.
- Products that work quite well and aren't too expensive - $3.99 to $19.99
KEAN STRIP - sprayable paint remove or KEAN STRIP - aerosol remover
GOOF OFF - ultimate remover - aerosol can
STRIP X - paint remover
The above three products can be found in hardware stores, paint stores, or building supply stores. Carburetor cleaner can be found at automotive supply stores.

Note:

- Most of these graffiti removal products are toxic! Please use them with caution, following the manufacturer's directions.
- Dispose of empty cans and containers properly at the Ramsey County Hazardous Waste (Bay West Building), 5 Empire Drive in St. Paul (phone: 651-633-03279)
- It is recommended that you wear rubber gloves, safety goggles, and an OSHA approved respirator while removing graffiti.

Graffiti Removal Tips

Graffiti breeds more and more graffiti! Immediate cleanup is recommended!

- General Tip: If you want to paint over graffiti, first prepare surface with KILZ which comes in spray can or brushing form. This will seal the graffiti, and keep it from bleeding through the new paint. If the area to be painted is small (one or two tags) use KILZ first, then you can spray paint the area with a color that closely matches the original wall. Sometimes you will notice that an entire wall will have to be painted over because just merely patching with paint almost looks worse than the graffiti tags.
- Brick, Cement, or Concrete: Use extra strength paint remover. Apply with a wire brush or some products come with a sprayer. Scrub area with wire brush, and then allow it to dry. Rinse with a forceful stream of water from a hose. Some surfaces may have to be done twice or more!
- Stucco: Apply extra strength paint remover. Seal area with KILZ and then paint over the area with stucco paint. If the affected area is hit with numerous tags or pieces (large designs), you should sand blast the wall. Sandblasters can be rented for approximately $65 per day. Or you can contract with a professional sandblaster who will charge according to the size of the wall. Some damage is likely to occur, regardless of which method is used!
- Aluminum Siding: GOOF OFF works quite well on latex paint, but not on oil-based paint, Oil-based painted siding can be cleaned up with either KEAN STRIPP or STRIP X, but sparingly and carefully!
- Wood: On latex or oil-based painted wood use KILZ to seal the graffiti. Paint over thickly so the graffiti won't bleed through. If the area is stained and varnished, use Kean Strip with sprayer, wipe off with cloth rag.
- Fiberglass: Use paint remover such as KEAN STRIP or STRIP X or GOOF OFF full strength and rinse carefully. Carburetor cleaner also works well.
- Glass or Plexiglass: Use carburetor cleaner and a cloth rag.
- Metal: Try carburetor cleaner first. If this doesn't work, use KEAN STRIP or STRIP x.
- Products that work quite well and aren't too expensive - $3.99 to $19.99
KEAN STRIP - sprayable paint remove or KEAN STRIP - aerosol remover
GOOF OFF - ultimate remover - aerosol can
STRIP X - paint remover
The above three products can be found in hardware stores, paint stores, or building supply stores. Carburetor cleaner can be found at automotive supply stores.

Note:

- Most of these graffiti removal products are toxic! Please use them with caution, following the manufacturer's directions.
- Dispose of empty cans and containers properly at the Ramsey County Hazardous Waste (Bay West Building), 5 Empire Drive in St. Paul (phone: 651-633-03279)
- It is recommended that you wear rubber gloves, safety goggles, and an OSHA approved respirator while removing graffiti.

Graffiti Removal Tips

Graffiti breeds more and more graffiti! Immediate cleanup is recommended!

- General Tip: If you want to paint over graffiti, first prepare surface with KILZ which comes in spray can or brushing form. This will seal the graffiti, and keep it from bleeding through the new paint. If the area to be painted is small (one or two tags) use KILZ first, then you can spray paint the area with a color that closely matches the original wall. Sometimes you will notice that an entire wall will have to be painted over because just merely patching with paint almost looks worse than the graffiti tags.
- Brick, Cement, or Concrete: Use extra strength paint remover. Apply with a wire brush or some products come with a sprayer. Scrub area with wire brush, and then allow it to dry. Rinse with a forceful stream of water from a hose. Some surfaces may have to be done twice or more!
- Stucco: Apply extra strength paint remover. Seal area with KILZ and then paint over the area with stucco paint. If the affected area is hit with numerous tags or pieces (large designs), you should sand blast the wall. Sandblasters can be rented for approximately $65 per day. Or you can contract with a professional sandblaster who will charge according to the size of the wall. Some damage is likely to occur, regardless of which method is used!
- Aluminum Siding: GOOF OFF works quite well on latex paint, but not on oil-based paint, Oil-based painted siding can be cleaned up with either KEAN STRIPP or STRIP X, but sparingly and carefully!
- Wood: On latex or oil-based painted wood use KILZ to seal the graffiti. Paint over thickly so the graffiti won't bleed through. If the area is stained and varnished, use Kean Strip with sprayer, wipe off with cloth rag.
- Fiberglass: Use paint remover such as KEAN STRIP or STRIP X or GOOF OFF full strength and rinse carefully. Carburetor cleaner also works well.
- Glass or Plexiglass: Use carburetor cleaner and a cloth rag.
- Metal: Try carburetor cleaner first. If this doesn't work, use KEAN STRIP or STRIP x.
- Products that work quite well and aren't too expensive - $3.99 to $19.99
KEAN STRIP - sprayable paint remove or KEAN STRIP - aerosol remover
GOOF OFF - ultimate remover - aerosol can
STRIP X - paint remover
The above three products can be found in hardware stores, paint stores, or building supply stores. Carburetor cleaner can be found at automotive supply stores.
