Good morning Kyle,

Didn't get a chance to review this yesterday as we were in hearings all day; this will not let us view it, says we need access (both myself and Ms. Vang tried):

Will this suffice? The only change from this bank statement to the current balance is that I moved $10k from the savings account over to the checking account in anticipation of paying for the home repairs.

Again, please redact my account numbers if sharing the statement elsewhere.

Thanks,
Kyle

Ok, understood. I'll find a more recent statement.

IF you're using a checking account, you will need to submit a current balance. One from July is too long ago.

This is the email that provided my banking information. Please redact the account number if you share the info elsewhere.

Received, thank you. I will note that as you don't have your Code Compliance Inspection Report yet, you'll likely have to resubmit, and typically the funds accepted are set aside in a separate account if they're in checking. Retirement accounts are generally not accepted, it needs to be available cash in an account. You can discuss this further with the Legislative Hearing officer, and ultimately it is her call, I just wanted to mention that.

Thanks,
Joanna

Hi Joanna,

Not sure if this helps, but here's my latest bank statement and a letter from Schwab about my retirement account. I redacted my banking account numbers, but please keep this information as confidential as possible.

Thanks,
