Hi Folks -

I moved to St. Paul in March and immediately began exploring the neighborhood on foot. At some point I was delighted to find what I called a little bit of Zen on Bayliss, a delightful rain garden. The other day I realized that I had lost my emergency id on my morning walk. Soon after my son received a phone call from Seth Richardson, explaining that he had found it. When I went to retrieve it I realized that this was the Zen house. After telling Seth how much I loved his garden and waterfall, he told me that it was now an issue with the city.

I am putting my two cents in. I hope that the city can allow a variance to whatever rule this is breaking. I don't see the harm. It adds to the uniqueness and beauty of the neighborhood. Save the rain garden, please.

Thank you -
Sue
