29 RES PH 14-276

Ratifying the assessment for the Central Corridor Light Rail Transit Project - University Avenue. (File No. 19082, Assessment No. 101000)

In opposition:

Greg Ryan, property and business owner on University Avenue, described the history of the family business on University Avenue. He said no small business was in favor of light rail but they had to pay for it, and he described his own tax bills and assessments. He said irreversible damage had been done to businesses along the Central Corridor, while businesses such as Macy's and Mai Village that had been given forgivable loans by the City but had not stayed. He said he was tired of being asked to subsidize the City's failures, and the light rail had resulted only in accidents and unsafe conditions. He said the assessment was discriminatory and unnecessary, and he was strongly opposed.

Todd Erickson, Summit Amusement (2274 University Avenue), said he was happy to pay for lighting but his concern is with damage to buildings from the light rail construction. He said there should be a mechanism to hold off on the assessment if the Met Council was responsible for the damage.

Daisy Haung (654 University Avenue), said the assessment was a shock even though it was noticed a long time ago, and with her building and parking lot there would be almost $90,000 in tax. She said the construction caused a hardship, and while she understood the construction was done and money spent, she asked that in the future the City please think of the businesses. She said it was hard to get tenants with increased costs.

Alex Pham (439 University Avenue W.) said he had come before the Council two years before and asked for help, and he had gotten no help and really suffered in those two years. He said the City still collected fees during construction when there were no services and there was nothing but dirt. He asked for help.

Tino Hing (690 University Avenue W.) said business was slow even after construction was completed, and he asked for help.

Peter Vang, Sunrise Plaza (995 University Avenue W.), said construction had hurt business at his property, but as a property owner he wasn't able to qualify for a loan. He said he paid tax of over $109,000 per year and now an assessment for $7300. He said he needed time to pay it, and charging interest over time was not right. He said the light rail had not benefited his business but has benefited all people in the metro area so the costs should be shared. He said his customers drove in and out, and didn't ride the train.

Dr. Zach Kimble (1141 University), said he would like to see the assessment shared by other people, since businesses were not the only people benefiting. He said he had been in business in 33 years and had never struggled like in the past few years, and his business had been broken into 3 times in the last four months since the light rail started and had never been in all the years before. He said employees now had to use the alley to enter and exit, and it wasn't safe. He said narrowing of the sidewalk had caused snow removal problems. He said he appreciated the help offered by the City, and encouraged continued help.

Councilmember Stark moved to close the public hearing. Yeas - 7 Nays - 0

Councilmember Stark thanked everyone for coming and testifying, and acknowledged that it had been a long journey. He noted that he and Councilmember Carter had been successful in getting the assessments reduced from what they would normally be on a street reconstruction. He clarified that the assessments weren't for the light rail itself but for street work, and University Avenue hadn't been improved for a long time. He said people were currently paying $77 per foot for street improvements in residential areas compared with $42 for this assessment. He said he understood that this did seem like a lot in of a charges in a row but the assessment was delayed later than was usually the case for a construction project. He reiterated that the property owners were getting a break for the street work on University, and others were paying their share when street work got done in front of their properties. He said the City would continue to work on issues such as snow removal. He said he would move approval of the assessment but knew Councilmember Thao had comments to add.

Councilmember Thao said he appreciated the testimony and sympathized with the frustrations expressed by business owners. He said he felt Met Council could have done more to subsidize and support the businesses, and it had been a learning experience for Council members and leaders of the City. He said he hoped part of the conversation was about service and delivery of service, and that citizens felt they could reach out to ask for support if there were any concerns about services.

Councilmember Brendmoen said it did seem that a lot of assessments had come in the past several weeks, and she understood the stresses that could place on a business owner. She asked whether there were other options for spreading out or deferring payments. Council President Lantry said ROW and sewer bills went to property taxes if not paid. Councilmember Brendmoen asked whether there was a way for the payment deadlines to be spaced out; she said it seemed like a very reasonable request. Council President Lantry said there were a lot of things to coordinate, and they would need to work with Public Works and Real Estate to find out how that might happen. Councilmember Stark clarified that repayment could be made at any time within 20 years. He said staff was present to answer specific questions about payment options, and he asked staff to identify themselves.

Councilmember Stark moved approval.

Approving adverse action against the Auto Repair Garage license held by Fredy Auto Repair, LLC, d/b/a Fredy Auto Repair at 931 Atlantic Street.

Geoffrey Karls, Assistant City Attorney representing the Department of Safety and Inspections (DSI), gave a staff report on the license condition violations involving too many vehicles on the lot and improper storage of tires and refuse on the lot. He said DSI recommended a penalty of $500 and the additional condition of placards on cars to identify which of the five licensed auto repair businesses at the address it was associated with. He said the licensee didn't dispute the facts but had requested a public hearing to talk about the $500 penalty.

Licensee Fredys Quintanilla said he was in favor of the changes and agreed with trying to make the City clean and with the idea of using placards to identify each car. He reviewed the changes being made to prevent the problem from recurring, and said the business was owned by his dad and he was trying to help out. He asked to have the penalty reduced or to have the option of a payment plan.

Councilmember Bostrom moved to close the public hearing. Yeas - 7 Nays - 0

Councilmember Bostrom said it was a mess, and the City had provided a lot of time. He moved to adopt DSI's recommendation.

Councilmember Brendmoen said she appreciated the licensee's recognition of the problem and attempts at solutions.

Council President Lantry urged Mr. Quintanilla to talk to DSI about a payment plan.

Approving adverse action against the Auto Body Repair/Painting Shop license held by Safe Auto Body Shop at 931 Atlantic Street.

Geoffrey Karls, Assistant City Attorney representing the Department of Safety and Inspections (DSI), gave a staff report on the license condition violations involving too many vehicles on the lot and improper storage of tires and refuse on the lot. He said DSI recommended a penalty of $500 and the additional condition of placards on cars to identify which of the five licensed auto repair businesses at the address it was associated with. He said the licensee didn't dispute the facts but had requested a public hearing to talk about the $500 penalty.

Licensee Carlos Ramirez, Safe Auto Body, acknowledged that there were violations present on the day of inspection, but a lot of violations were on the lot of the neighboring business and the violations were small. He said the business didn't make a lot of money, and the cars cited on the property did not belong to them. He said he disagreed with the $500 fine.

Public hearing to consider the report of the Administrative Law Judge concerning all licenses held by RAS Ethiopian Bar & Restaurant, d/b/a RAS Restaurant & Lounge at 2516 Seventh Street West.

Geoffrey Karls, Assistant City Attorney representing the Department of Safety and Inspections (DSI), gave a staff report on adverse actions involving providing entertainment without a license, failure to provide surveillance video when requested, trash on the property, failure to maintain required off-street parking in accordance with the approved site plan, and work done without proper permits. He said the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found the allegations had all been proven, and had recommended a $1500 penalty. He said was DSI asking for the Council to adopt the ALJ's Findings, Conclusions, and Recommendation.

In opposition:

Paul Lelii, said he was appearing as a neighbor, attorney, and activist. He spoke about community service projects engaged in by the licensee and said the business owner had lived up to the promises made to neighbors when he was licensed. He said they had made a concerted effort to work with Chief of Police and had used off duty police officers regularly. He said the business was a work-in-progress and they would like to move forward rather than having lots of inspections. He said the trash was small problem and not visible. He said they were sold a defective surveillance system. He said he was personally troubled by the license condition related to parking and that the licensee was trying to purchase the adjacent property for parking. He noted new signage put in at the request of neighbors to improve the appearance of the business. He asked that the $1500 penalty be set aside, and said he would continue to work with the business owner.

Councilmember Tolbert asked whether the licensee was present. Mr. Lelii said he was earlier but couldn't stay.

Councilmember Tolbert moved to close the public hearing. Yeas - 7 Nays - 0

Councilmember Tolbert said the ALJ report spoke for itself, and the bar had been a problem for the last year. He said the licensee needed to get his act together. He said he wished there were a bigger fine, and he moved approval of the department's recommendation. He asked that Mr. Lelii pass along to the licensee that he needed to comply with the conditions that he agreed to, and the neighbors were tired of the problems.

Public hearing to consider the appeal of Summit Avenue Residential Preservation Association to a decision of Planning Commission to approve a conditional use permit at 344 Summit Avenue.

Hilary Holmes, City Planner in Department of Planning and Economic Development (PED), gave a staff report. She reviewed the history of the building, the pertinent zoning code sections, and the findings of the Planning Commission.

Council President Lantry clarified with Ms. Holmes that the business still couldn't move forward until the parking condition had been met.

Appellant:

Bethany Gladhill (1358 Summit Avenue), president of the Summit Avenue Residential Preservation Association (SARPA), said Summit was the longest remaining Victorian residential street in the country, and her organization opposed commercial development on Summit. She said they agreed with the Planning staff recommendation, and believed the Planning Commission erred in permitting this use.

Tami Diehm, attorney representing SARPA, reviewed the standards that had to be met to grant the zoning code exception and the conditional use permit required for this use, and said both steps involved consistency with the comprehensive plan. She noted that Planning staff had concluded that the proposed use was not consistent with the comprehensive plan. She stressed that the Council's job was to evaluate the plan based on the existing comprehensive plan, and noted that the Planning Commission recommendation was to not grant any exceptions related to parking. She summarized that SARPA felt the proposed use was not consistent with the comprehensive plan, the use would not provide adequate ingress and egress, the proposed use would not conform to the applicable regulations of the district, the applicants had failed to demonstrate that the parking requirements created an exceptional hardship that would justify modification, the requested parking deviation and the use of the property as a hotel would interfere with the reasonable enjoyment of the adjacent properties, and the proposed use would be detrimental to the existing character of the established neighborhood.

Ted Lentz (692 Summit), resident since January 1974, said he'd initially felt that the development would pick things up in a slow area of Summit, but he had since realized that things were turning around as homeowners were investing in their own properties. He spoke about the unique character of Summit.

Daryl Natz (436 Ashland) said the hotel would be a 24/7 business with no on-site management, and would degrade the neighborhood and residential character, and bring down home values.

Mary Lynch (1726 Summit), 47-year Summit Avenue resident, begged the Council not to bring any commercial development to Summit, and said she believed that if the house had been put on the market it would have been purchased and returned to its original grandeur.

Eric Lein (361 Summit) referred to a letter he'd submitted, and read from a letter from the comprehensive planning committee to the Planning Commission stating that the St. Paul Zoning Code was established to protect the public health, safety, morals, aesthetics, economic viability, and general welfare of the community. He said he felt that if the St. Paul opted to define boutique hotels and permit their use within residential neighborhood, the process should include review and reevaluation of the zoning code and should not be a site-specific change at the 11th hour.

Applicant:

John Rupp (366 Summit Avenue) said the project was essentially residential, and the Planning Commission did not err in their decision. He said his project would take a building that had been a college for 50 years, which was clearly a commercial use, and convert it to a luxury 10-unit apartment building. He said allowing the units to be rented for less than a month did not change the character from residential to commercial, and no other commercial activity would be allowed, according to conditions set by the Planning Commission. He said the best way to market to potential guests was as a boutique hotel, and the City had no zoning classification for that. He said the City's limit was four units for a Bed and Breakfast, otherwise he would have presented his project as a 10-unit bed and Breakfast, which is what it was. He said this type of use existed in the past in the Cathedral Hill area. He described the type of accommodation he was proposing, and compared it to other types in the city. He said hundreds of similar accommodations were operating illegally in the city, and St. Paul had not caught up with trends in accommodations. He said he had worked to engage the community, and SARPA was the only group which refused to meet.

Councilmember Thune asked Mr. Rupp to focus his testimony on the disputed findings in the Planning Commission's decision. Mr. Rupp said all of the conditions were carefully evaluated in the Planning Commission's findings, and the neighbors within 100 feet were unanimous in support. He asked that the Council uphold the decision of most of the Planning staff.

Councilmember Thune moved to close the public hearing. Yeas - 7 Nays - 0

Councilmember Thune said he was inclined to protect the unique character of Summit Avenue but tended to agree with Planning Commission in this case. He said this really was virtually indistinguishable from a large residence, with no signage or business activities. He said he supported SARPA's goals and understood the concerns, but felt this would be a stabilizing factor. He moved to deny the appeal.

Councilmember Stark said he felt this could go either way from a technical perspective, and the previous use was of interest in this case since the building was a classroom, which he felt functioned as more of a commercial use. He noted concerns in the testimony that this could be precedent-setting, but said these circumstances were quite unique. He said he would support the motion.

Council President Lantry said she would not support Councilmember Thune's motion. She said the comprehensive plan argument wasn't initially persuasive but became more so with that evening's testimony. She said if you lived in a residential neighborhood you should be able to count on it staying residential. She said if the building was going to function as an apartment it should be called an apartment, but allowing a hotel, which was a commercial use, could be opening a door to allowing anything to be called a reasonable use. She noted that there was no zoning code when the College of Visual Arts initiated the previous use. She said there were other reasonable uses that met the underlying zoning at the property.

Councilmember Brendmoen said this was somewhere in between a hotel, apartment, and Bed and Breakfast, and there was no definition. She said she was with Councilmember Thune tonight but it had been an interesting discussion.

Councilmember Tolbert said he would be voting with Councilmember Thune. He said definitions of accommodations were changing a lot, and perhaps staff could request a study of this type of thing. He said it was probably time for the City to address this.

34 APC 14-6

Public hearing to consider the appeal of Donald Buckrey to a decision of the Planning Commission denying a change of nonconforming use permit for auto repair and outdoor auto sales at 1176 Dale Street.
(Public hearing continued from October 15)

Jake Reilly, Planning and Economic Development (PED), gave a staff report on the application and appeal. He said the original staff recommendation was approval with conditions; the Planning Commission and Zoning Committee both recommended denial. He clarified that the application was to reduce the number of parking spaces to allow more flexibility for the use of the site. He said the appellant was not present, and if the Council chose it could lay the matter over to November 5 which would meet the "60 day" rule. He said it could also be extended an additional 120 days if the appellant and Council wished.

Robert Keena (8050 West 78th Street, Edina), representing licensee Donald Buckery, said Mr. Buckery was out of state but would like the opportunity to provide information and bring his supporters and neighbors. Council President Lantry and Councilmember Brendmoen confirmed with Mr. Keena that either he or Mr. Buckery would be available on November 5. Mr. Keena acknowledged there had been problems at the property, and the application was in regard to a change in the use. He said the Zoning Committee recommended approval, and the Planning Committee's denial was based only on one area related to the detrimental use of the property. He said the analysis leading to that finding was related to the property and its history, and not to the proposed changes. He said he felt it was counterintuitive that a request to improve the property should be considered a use detrimental to the community. He said he hoped the appeal would be approved on that basis, and that the hearing would be help open until the 5th to allow Mr. Buckery and his neighbors to appear.

Councilmember Brendmoen said there was a long term pattern of lack of action on proposed plans, and she would like to hear directly from Mr. Buckery about how he planned to meet the conditions associated with granting the application.

Mr. Keena said the only condition Mr. Buckery had a problem with was cars not sitting for more than 48 hours.

Councilmember Brendmoen moved to continue the public hearing to November 5.

37 RES PH 14-285 Modifying Area 1 Residential Permit Parking.

Dan Fowlds said he owned Grand Realty at 1554 Selby and his wife owned Merriam Park Acupuncture at 1523 Selby. He said he supported the change in the permit parking but asked that one area of change be delayed until the construction was completed.

Monica Beeman, Public Works, said they had received 4 to 5 phone calls asking that changes in signage along Saratoga and Dayton be delayed until construction was done. She said construction took precedence over permit parking areas anyway, and they would have to do whatever the construction required in order to get it complete.

Joe Hughes (1564 Selby) spoke in support.

LEGISLATIVE HEARING ITEMS REQUIRING DISCUSSION

- 77 RLH VO 14-45 Appeal of Todd A. Erickson to a Revocation of Fire Certificate of Occupancy and Order to Vacate at 2274 UNIVERSITY AVENUE WEST.

Legislative Hearing Officer Marcia Moermond gave a staff report on the revocation due to repeated cancellations and reschedulings of inspections. She said the notable issues brought out in the legislative hearing included overcrowding, and a leaking roof. She recommended granting to November 14 to comply or vacate, and she noted that an amendment was needed to correct the deadline in the resolution from November 1 to November 14.

In opposition:

Council President Lantry asked Mr. Erickson to focus on the issues in the appeal. Mr. Erickson said he would like some time to prepare.

Councilmember Stark noted that the recommendation was to allow to November 14 for compliance. Mr. Erickson said he was working on it full time, and he said there were some items that he disputed.
