SYNOPSIS:	The Fire Department was called to a report of a dwelling fire. Firefighters arrived to find active fire conditions on the exterior of the house. Firefighters quickly extinguished the fire and performed overhaul. The occupant states that they were cleaning cooking pans on the deck and TAN BUI was smoking at the time. He had gone to take a nap after and awoke to alarms sounding and popping noises coming from the back of the house. Upon investigating, he found the back deck on fire with extension to the back side of the house. Electrical source ruled out based on the burn and char patterns on the decking boards and the electrical source in the wall intact. Cooking pans ruled out based on the occupant stating that they were cleaning pans in preparation to planned use on Sunday March 8th 2020. The ignition source was most likely inappropriate disposal of smoking materials. The first fuel ignited was decking material. The action that brought these items together was an accidental human act. The classification of fire cause is accidental.
