SYNOPSIS:	Saint Paul Fire Department was dispatched for a report of an attic fire. Fire companies arrived to find fire coming from the roof of a 2-story, single-family dwelling. Firefighters performed extinguishment and overhaul. Interviews conducted on-scene with the occupant revealed he was awoken by the smoke alarms and observed smoke in the bathroom ceiling upon investigating. Investigation revealed mass loss and charring to the roof and roof trusses above the bathroom area with electrical passing through. The ignition source was most likely heat of electrical resistance. The first fuel ignited was most likely combustible building materials. The act that brought these two together was most likely an electrical malfunction. The classification of fire cause is accidental.
