- 41     RES PH 13-184     Amending the financing and spending plans in the Lowertown Ballpark Project in the amount of $9,000,000, and designating the St. Paul Port Authority as the issuer of Taxable Limited Tax-Supported Ballpark Revenue Bonds.

Parks and Recreation Director Mike Hahm gave a staff report on the project. He said Midway Stadium needed replacement and the City had a choice between getting out of the baseball business or replacing the facility. He said the minimum cost to replace the stadium was $10 million, but the state stepped forward as a partner allowing the City to leverage additional money with the requirement of a local match. He described the partnership with the Port Authority involving a property swap which was consistent with park divestment policies and allowed two sites to be put to their highest and best use. He described the investment made by the Saints beginning early in the process and including $11 million in Saints private sector money which was helping leverage the state money. He said the ballpark capacity would be about 7000, compared to 5700 for Midway Stadium, and would include some suites and group seating areas and more adequate concessions and restroom facilities. He said the dog park adjacent to the ballpark site would be closed during construction but reconstructed after completion. He said in response to community input there would be entrances both from the west and east, and there would be good transit access. He said the City would own and the Saints would operate the stadium, but the use agreement stipulated the existing use profile and fee structure for Midway Stadium be retained. He said the Saints would be in charge of the day to day maintenance, which was handled by the City at Midway. He stated that construction of the project would comply with requirements related to procurement, sustainability, and HREEO hiring goals. He said the project had received a great deal of support throughout the process from the business community and supporters of amateur baseball. He explained that as they moved past the concept stage they identified $6 million in additional costs for environmental clean-up and $3 million for design realization, and said the additional costs were initially higher but they worked to reduce them. He addressed concerns related to the sequencing of other infrastructure projects impacting the ballpark project.

Councilmember Thune asked that Mr. Hurley address sources for the additional funding, and specifically whether it included STAR dollars.

Finance Department Director and City Treasurer Todd Hurley compared the original and new budgets line by line, and described the Port Authority bond issue. He highlighted changes and sources of additional funds, including an additional $1 million contribution from the Saints, $2 million from state funding received for sports facilities, and a $6 million internal cash flow loan. He identified potential sources for repayment of the loan including environmental clean-up grants, revenue sharing, naming rights, and other revenues from the ballpark. In response to Councilmember Thune's question he said he believed the STAR contribution was $1.5 million. He said the City would own the park but the Saints would be financially and functionally obligated to operate the facility, and he reviewed other key deal points with the Saints including revenue sharing, and participation in sale proceeds. He said the details of the agreements were still to be worked out but they were hoping to execute them in August.

Councilmember Tolbert asked for a review of sources of repayment for the internal loan, and what would happen if it wasn't repaid. Mr. Hurley said cash flow loans had been used in the past for projects that didn't have quite enough money up-front, with the goal of repayment within three to five years. He said $6 million of the added costs were for environmental remediation and the Port Authority was helping identify grants. He said the fund would remain unpaid if repayment sources were not identified.

Councilmember Tolbert asked why those revenue sources being explored for loan repayment were not explored for original budget, and why the Saints weren't asked for a larger contribution initially. Mr. Hurley said they had been looking for a tenant in addition to the Saints for a number of years, but prepaid rent could not be booked at this point in the project. He said when the budget gap was identified, the strategies and negotiations with the Saints changed towards use of ballpark as a possible loan repayment source. Mr. Hahm said the Saints initial $10 million contribution was part of City and private sources to needed to match the State grant, and it was possible that any of the numbers could have been different initially. He said a lot of thought and equity went into how the split was arrived at, and a lot of work in partnership with the Saints went into arriving at how the $3 million gap would be split.

Councilmember Tolbert asked for details of the $3 million miscalculation of the project cost. Mr. Hahm said as the project moved from concept estimates to schematic design estimates they had access to better information, and he reiterated that adjustments and tough choices were made to reduce the amount of the gap.

Councilmember Tolbert asked how Council members and taxpayers could feel comfortable that there wouldn't be another budget amendment. Mr. Hahm said there were no guarantees but they had reached a point in the project where they had solid information and detailed estimates, and would be ratifying the design and setting the guaranteed maximum price with Ryan.

Councilmember Tolbert asked why the City was obligated to clean up the site. Mr. Hahm said the City owned the property and knew at the time of purchase that it was contaminated and required remediation. He said they had a good handle on clean-up costs, and the City and Port were experienced and skilled at site clean-up.

Councilmember Tolbert asked who would set the rents and control public use of the ballpark. Mr. Hahm said the Saints would manage and schedule, and the use agreements stated that the existing use and fee schedule would go forward. He said the City would have the opportunity to review and approve the fee schedule, and audit and evaluate uses. Council President Lantry clarified that it would probably be approved by Parks, as the Council did not approve those rates now.

Councilmember Khaliq asked how much was in the internal loan fund. Mr. Hurley said the policy was that a percentage of City's general fund budget was available, and there were no outstanding loans at this time.

Councilmember Thune asked for examples of other projects that had used internal loans. Mr. Hurley said internal loans had been used for projects at the Science Museum, Rivoli, Jimmy Lee Rec Center, Highland Golf Course, Upper Landing, and Como Pool, and all had been repaid.

Councilmember Khaliq noted that the northwest corner of Oxford playground still had environmental contamination, and he asked what the level of contamination was and when it would be addressed. Mr. Hahm said the site was safe for people to use without any environmental risk. He said the contaminants found near the corner of Concordia and Lexington were less far significant than those found elsewhere on the property and could be contained within the $600,000 CIB project currently being considered. He said the contaminants under the tot lot were sealed and contained by the play area but would be addressed when that area was reconstructed.

Councilmember Bostrom asked for an explanation of the "obligation" to replace Midway stadium. Mr. Hahm said it was better to say there was an unfunded liability at Midway and a choice to either get out of baseball or replace the asset. He said the replacement cost would be a minimum of $10 million and probably $12 to $17 million. Councilmember Bostrom asked for confirmation that the City had no obligation to replace the stadium. Mr. Hahm said there was no legal obligation but if the project were not being pursued legislatively and in partnership with the Saints, Parks would likely have a CIB request as part of this cycle in competition with other projects.

Councilmember Bostrom expressed concern that since the Saints and outdoor baseball were no longer new to St. Paul and the new site didn't have options for tailgating, the ballpark would lose the competition with the new Twins stadium. Mr. Hahm said the big difference was price point. He said they were working to identify areas for tailgating, and planned to take advantage of other attributes downtown has to offer.

Councilmember Bostrom why due diligence wasn't done before the property was purchased. Mr. Hahm said they knew the downtown site and Midway sites were polluted and some testing was done. He said he would have to report back later on the details of what they knew then versus what they currently knew.

Councilmember Bostrom asked for more information on the moral obligation bonds. Mr. Hurley said if there was not sufficient money to pay debt service on the Port Authority bonds, the Administration would bring forward a resolution to fund the debt service. He said in front of that moral obligation was rent sufficient to pay the debt service, a one-year rent guarantee, and a bond-funded debt service reserve. He said before the Administration would come back with a budget resolution, the City would utilize the rent guarantee account, work with the Saints, or work to find another tenant. In response to an additional question from Councilmember Bostrom, he said the Council could decline to appropriate money which would result in it reverting back to the mandatory levy of the Port Authority. He clarified that the default would be between the City and Port Authority which would be detrimental to the City's credit rating, but the bond holders would still get paid through the levy.

Councilmember Bostrom asked whether the City was able to audit the Saints' books to verify revenue. Mr. Hurley said as part of the revenue sharing agreement being negotiated, the Saints CPA would be required to file a report of revenues and expenditures. He said there was also a provision for the City to be able to look at books.

Mr. Hahm said the final steps were to put the agreements with the Saints in legal form, finalize the grant agreement with the State, move on with Ryan from schematic design to design development, and restart the work of the Lowertown Ballpark Design and Construction Committee. He stressed the importance of the project moving forward on schedule.

Councilmember Bostrom asked whether there were any plans to close or decommission neighborhood recreation centers over the next couple of years. Mr. Hahm said there were currently no pending downward adjustments to recreation centers or programs. Councilmember Bostrom said if $6 million could be taken out of an internal fund for this, decommissioning a rec center would be untenable.

Council President Lantry clarified the specifics of what was before the Council.

In opposition:

Greg Copeland (612 Cook Avenue E.) referred to questions from Councilmember

Bostrom about obligations, and read from the resolution about the level of taxpayer obligation. He said the City didn't have $200,000 to staff McDonough Recreation Center, and should have researched the ballpark property. He noted that a tax increase for a Twins stadium had been voted down previously.

Justin Busch (308 Prince Street) said taxpayers should not be expected to pony up for luxury suites, and rebuilding Midway would cost tens of millions of less and not ruin a neighborhood. He said the City would not help the Dorothy Day Center when there was need but could find funds for the ballpark.

Bill Hosko (400 N. Robert Street) asked that the Council delay their support for awarding more taxpayer money for the ballpark, stop the demolition of the Gillette Building, and ensure that a study of the possible reuse of the Gillette Building as a ballpark and multiple-use facility is completed without bias. He displayed drawings of a repurposed Gillette Building. He said the City's solicitation of funds in 2012 was not what it could have or should have been, and the promise to include community input in the design process had not been kept. He read from a letter he'd received from Mr. Hahm in March 2012 stating that the plan was well beyond the concept phase, and details including cost estimates had been refined over time and it was too late at that point to look at alternative designs. He read a quote from the current day's paper in which Mr. Hahm stated that reuse of the Gillette Building had been studied and deemed too expensive and unworkable, and he said that was simply not true. He asked who would lose if the project were slowed down.

Tom Goldstein (1399 Sherburne Avenue) echoed points he made a year before regarding the lack of process in promoting the ballpark, the large commitment of public funds, and the minimal investment on the part of the Saints. He also expressed concern about the predetermined, "rubberstamp" nature of the hearing, and the lack of due diligence regarding contamination.

Tom Erickson (287 E. 6th Street) echoed Councilmember Bostrom's concerns about whether traditional Saints fans would follow the team to the new stadium. He asked Mr. Hurley how long the guarantee agreement was in force, and what would happen if the Saints walked and the City was stuck with the stadium and a tremendous financial obligation. Council President Lantry reviewed the amount of the City's financial obligation, and the contributions from other sources.

Greg Cylkowski (3036 Ontario Road) said the Saints were an asset for the City for the first ten years, but currently had a poor product and had been inflating their attendance figures for the last eight years. He said due to lack of vision, the Twin Cities had torn down and rebuilt more stadiums than any other metropolitan area since 1960. He said the Saints would use the stadium as a money maker, and letting them run it was suicidal. He said the business community did not support the project, there were no marketing studies to show whether there was a need, and they were competing with the University of Minnesota. He asked the City to take its time.

Tim Holden (1607 University Avenue) said the community hadn't been given a voice, and, as politicians, the Council should listen to what the citizens wanted and not what was good for the Saints or for the Mayor's résumé. He said rec centers were closing, and he questioned the City's priorities. He asked that the process be slowed down and the project done right.

Leila Poullada (854 Linwood Avenue) agreed with Mr. Hosko that there were design possibilities to use the Gillette Building. She asked that a multi-use space be considered, and that the project be delayed to allow time for more careful negotiations.

Jeanette Gudel (515 S. Lexington Parkway) said she was appalled by the $9 million shortfall. She said the city had owned the Gillette building for some time, and she questioned why was this not checked. She said estimates should start from a worst case scenario. She said the City should make do and build the stadium without the extra $9 million. She predicted that St. Paul would go in the same direction of Detroit.

Tom Polachek (1221 Arundel Street) said a North End police station was needed and would cost less than a "substandard toy" for Bill Murray and Mike Veeck.

In response to the questions from Mr. Erickson, Mr. Hurley reviewed the details of the guarantee put up by the owners of the Saints, and said the term of the use agreement was 25 years. He said if the Saints left, the debt service would be covered by the rent guarantee for the first year, by the debt service reserve fund for the second year, and the City would have two years to find another tenant to take over under the contract.

In support:

Matt Kramer, President of the St. Paul Area Chamber of Commerce and Board Member of Catholic Charities, said the Chamber had done a financial analysis and was confident the City had taken prudent risk mitigation, that this was necessary, and the City had leveraged their relationship with the Port Authority to the greatest degree. He said the Chamber supported the resolution.

William Thurmes (101 E. 5th Street, Suite 1700), Chair of Lowertown Ballpark Design and Construction Committee, described the goals of the committee and their work thus far, and asked that they be judged based on the finished product. He said there had been a process for community input, and the committee was resetting and ready to resume their work as soon as the shortfall was resolved.

Arthur Morrissey (187 Annapolis Street E.) said as someone who lived and did business in St. Paul, he was excited about the Lowertown project and appreciated citizen concerns and efforts to make it better. He said the stadium would attract a lot of people to St. Paul and expose them to everything St. Paul had to offer.

Todd Johnson (523 Portland Avenue) said it was not fair for the critics to demonize the St. Paul Saints, and he gave examples of community outreach performed by the Saints. He said it was a risk, but not that great of a risk.

Councilmember Thune moved to close the public hearing. Yeas - 6 Nays - 0

Councilmember Tolbert asked whether anyone was present representing the Saints, and expressed concerns about the use agreement. He said he felt the best use was public use, and asked what the Saints' vision was for the use agreement and for keeping costs down for public use.

Ann Huidekoper, Vice President of Community Partnerships and Customer Service with the Saints, said the commitment was to continue the existing relationships, and the fee structure was part of the agreements being discussed. She spoke about current level of community outreach and said they gave donations to over 2000 organizations per year.

Councilmember Tolbert asked for thoughts on other semi-pro or college team use. Ms. Huidekoper said those were a possibility but the existing community partnerships were a priority.

Councilmember Khaliq asked about attendance over the last three or four years. Ms. Huidekoper said it was just under 5000 per game based on ticket sales, but actual attendance varied, particularly because ticket prices were low.

Councilmember Thune thanked everyone for their testimony and their participation in the process. He recalled when Mike Veeck first came before the Council to promote the Saints as wholesome family fun. He said the Saints had been an asset, and the goal was to provide a high quality venue for fans to come see them play. He thanked the community for saying slow down rather than saying no. He said some things could have been done differently and he might not be getting exactly what he wanted, but the City and residents were on the road to dealing with some of the concerns, and St. Paul was getting something it needed. He moved approval.

Councilmember Tolbert said he had been struggling with the additional $9 million since it was announced, and felt the internal loan was risky. He said more due diligence should have been done with regards to the environmental costs, and he was still not satisfied with the explanation for the additional $3 million for design realization. He said it came down to the importance of having a municipal ballpark and the commitment to 60% public use, and he felt that was worth investing in. He said he hoped the length of the hearing and questions asked sent a message to everyone involved that they shouldn't come back for more money and that Council members would be unhappy if rec centers were proposed for closure in the coming year's budget.

Councilmember Khaliq said he had joined the Council on the tail end of the discussion and initially felt that the stadium was a waste of money and the overruns were concerning. He said his questions had been answered, and he felt reassured that this was a well thought out plan. He said overruns happened on projects and the details of environmental clean-up could be elusive. He said it was a risk, but downtown needed a shot in the arm and Council members could put personal biases aside for the good of the City. He said the commitment not to close playgrounds was important.

Councilmember Bostrom thanked everyone who came and testified. He said the moral obligation bonds were troubling, and the real moral obligation was to keep rec centers open and functioning. He asked that Parks not come back and ask for another dime for the project.

Council President Lantry said they'd had the extra long staff report to make sure everyone understood as many elements as possible, and the Council had been getting information over a long period of time. She said it was important for the City to continue to have a municipal stadium as part of its inventory. She reviewed the funding breakdown, obligation, and the protections in place. She said she wished it had gone differently, but the work of making sure every eventuality was thought of had been done, and the questions asked at the hearing were the tip of the iceberg of all of the questions that had been asked. She thanked Mr. Hahm and Mr. Hurley for all of their work.

52     RLH SAO 13-22     Appeal of Gregory K. Miller to a Summary Abatement Order, Correction Notice and Order to Provide Garbage Service at 1159 CENTRAL AVENUE WEST.

Legislative Hearing Officer Marcia Moermond gave a staff report on the orders for clean-up and garbage service. She showed photographs of materials blocking access to windows and doors, and present in the yard on the compliance date. She said the question was whether and when the City should do the clean-up. She said given the lack of progress so far, her recommendation was to order abatement as soon as possible. She noted that an upper unit occupied by the appellant's sister appeared to have been cleared out.

In opposition:

Property owner and appellant Gregory Miller said progress was being made, and everything was below window level on one side of the porch. He said he'd lived there for about 25 years and was using back porch like garage because there was no garage. He said he had an agreement with the hospital to use their dumpster and had been putting things there a little at a time. He said he had been working steadily and he asked for more time.

In response to a question from Councilmember Khaliq, Mr. Miller said he would like another week or two for the porch, and the materials in the yard could be gone that day but he didn't want to abuse his agreement with the hospital.

Councilmember Khaliq moved to close the public hearing. Yeas - 6 Nays - 0

Councilmember Khaliq asked Ms. Moermond asked whether she felt progress was being made and what she felt was a reasonable amount of time. Ms. Moermond said there had been marginal progress relative to the scope. She said Mr. Miller did have an agreement with the neighbor for household garbage, but a clean-up of this size was not envisioned. She suggested August 1.

Councilmember Khaliq moved to grant an extension to August 1.

She said a very short time passed between the arrival of the police, the boarding contractor, and the property owner; and the security company had failed to contact the property owner. - 67     RLH OA 13-54     Appeal of Gary and Lorraine Vietor to a Letter from Department of Parks and Recreation-Operations at 1566 MONTANA AVENUE EAST.
- Legislative Hearing Officer Marcia Moermond gave a staff report on the appeal of Parks' denial of the property owner's request to remove a boulevard tree. She said the property owner believed the tree was causing problems in a recently-replaced sewer line and had asked the City to remove the tree, but Forestry had referred the property owner to Public Works. She said it had caused expensive problems for the property owner but her recommendation was to deny the appeal because it was not Parks' policy to remove healthy trees.*
- In opposition:*
- Appellant Lorene Vietor (with Gary Vietor) said they had lived there for 47 years and had never had a problem with the sewer line until the recent back-up due to tree roots. She said the City had replaced their sewer line to the street a couple of years before, and the City's clay pipe under the street was leaking and allowing tree roots to get into the system. She said Xcel had checked their sewer line when they were at the property to make sure the gas lines didn't run through the sewer line, and said it was in good shape. She said they'd never had a tree on the boulevard until seven years ago. She said they would now have to have the sewer cleaned out every two years due to tree roots, and they could not afford it and didn't feel it was their responsibility.*
