FOR DISCUSSION

- 20 RES 22-1066 Supporting Ramsey County's Battle Creek Regional Park Master Plan Amendment. (Laid over from July 27, 2020)

Councilmember Prince said she is moving the City's approval of the County's plan. She has taken the last couple weeks to work with environmental activists and neighbors on refinement of the language. She is grateful for several people (she mentioned their names). There was an issue from organizations concerned about the County purchasing some property, but it actually is in Maplewood and cannot be included in the resolution. There are people who are looking out for the natural environment. She moved approval of Version 2 in Legistar.

First Reading

- 25 Ord 22-36 Amending Chapter 409.01 of the Legislative Code to align with the requirements for caterer's permits with MN State Statute 340A.404 Subd. 12.
- Dan Niziolek, Deputy Director of Department of Safety and Inspections (DSI), is here. This supports the rental halls. In the past, DSI has allowed rental halls to allow hosts to serve complimentary alcohol to their guests for a private event. They were informed by the Minnesota Alcohol and Gambling Enforcement Division that is not permitted by State statute. They have learned that the only option is through a liquor caterer license. The City limits a number of liquor caterer sponsored events to 12 per year in a single location. This is a short-term solution impacting the rental halls. This is an amendment to allow an exemption for rental hall for private events only. The long-term solution is working with the industry and going back to the State Legislature for rental halls to get a consumption and display permit. Having a liquor caterer entering a situation increases the cost. In the short time to keep them operational, he is asking for passage of this. This is a small amendment.*
- Councilmember Noecker thanked him and his team for working quickly. This is a big concern for properties in her ward. Will the long term solution be included in the Legislative agenda for 2022? Niziolek responded he is recommending it to be included. Now, they are asking for vendors to work with the beverage association to work on that. DSI can come back as they will have the best interest in moving that forward.*
- Laid over to August 10 for second reading*
- Laid over to August 10, 2022 for second reading and public hearing.
- 26 Ord 22-37 Amending Chapter 193A of the Legislative Code pertaining to rent stabilization.
- Councilmember Tolbert said he is introducing legislation to amend the rent stabilization ordinance. We can all agree that there is a housing crisis in the City. His hope is to have a consensus amendment with more housing options, flexibility for owners, and needed protections for tenants. He looks forward to a robust conversation in the next weeks. He will have a few people present on this. Melanie McMahon will talk about how we got here today. He will talk about some policy decisions. Wiese will talk about next steps and how it will be implemented. Marcia Moermond will talk about the appeals process.*
- Melanie McMahon gave background and history on this issue and showed a PowerPoint. Voters approved an ordinance on rent stabilization on November 2, 2021. Mayor Carter announced a 4 member stakeholder group. This stakeholder group met weekly. In July 2022, they presented the group report to the City Council. The City Council also held a public hearing. April of this year, the City put the ordinance in Safety and Inspections for enforcement.*
- Tolbert said rent stabilization would still limit increases with 3% annually with exceptions: 1) 20 year new construction exemption. This exemption would help improve the production of housing, which is an essential component to the housing needs, 2) Partial vacancy decontrol – would allow the 3% annual increase to be banked. A property owner would not have to use it or lose it. This would allow for* rents to stay as they are for current renters. 3) There is an affordable housing exemption. They are already regulated by some form of government. Additionally, the ordinance plays forth a codified process. It would allow some exceptions for code compliance and things like that. 4) It has renter protection: just cause vacancy protection to ensure renters are not forced out so property owners can raise the rents, anti retaliation provision for renters who use their rights, and allows for a tenant complaint process and tenant appeal process. There is a notification process for tenants. Those are the big policy decisions. These are a good start. There are different forms of decontrol across the country.

Director Wiese appeared and said the changes outlined by Councilmember Tolbert will require a new rule making process. Not everyone is adept at reading ordinance language. DSI investigates all complaints. That is about 20,000 new complaints annually. They would like to educate before proceeding. Every complaint is reviewed closely. On average, it takes 1 to 3 business days to respond. The ordinance does not address resident complaints. Tenants would fill out a complaint form. They also take complaints other ways. Web form is preferred as it helps with tracking. They would receive an auto reply with next steps and resources. The auto response is in Spanish and English. If there is a landlord application, it is on file. In the case of self certification, staff may ask the landlord for supporting documentation. There are 3 outcomes: 1) landlord reaches out and requests information, 2) submits an application and come into compliance, 3) lower rent to come into compliance, 4) landlord takes action, which causes the investigation to continue. That leaves filing an exception.

Wiese went over the detailed process flowchart for the rent increase process.

Noecker said the self-certification is available between this percent and that percent. Wiese responded it may change depending on CPI.

Noecker said one of her goals is to streamline this process for staff, landlord, and tenants. Is this easier? Wiese responded no one said it would be easy. Their job is to make sure it is enforced. They tried to codify some of the things. They have rules, the ordinance, and they are trying to make it clear and transport. Is it easier? Maybe not, but they are trying to make it clear to the user what is expected.

Marcia Moermond said she will be talking about the appeals process. The trigger that is made by DSI is whether the rent cap will be granted. The appeal to that determination could be made by the landlord. An appeal could also be filed by a tenant who is affected by that decision. Tenants will be notified. They would have a 21-day window. They could file an appeal. If an appeal is filed, they will review the appeal and notify DSI that an appeal has been received. They also will be notifying the other interested parties: If a tenant files an appeal, the landlord will be notified, and vice versa. The tenants have been identified earlier in the process. The information is never complete when it walks into the door. They need the background, they may have missing information from the landlord and tenants. Sometimes, we won't get that ahead of time. Her intent is for an appeal to be heard within 2 to 4 weeks for an adequate analysis. In the Legislative Hearing, the first party she hears from is from staff. Their professional opinion is put on the record. Then they hear from the appellant and anyone from the public. Other information could be introduced. Often, they are able to conclude the LH in one sitting. This is new and will be the case for a while. It is her intention to provide a letter with findings and recommendations. What they look at now are minutes from the meetings. There will be an explicit reasoning for what is going on. They don't have 30 years of implementing an ordinance here. This is the beginning and it is important to be clear. If additional information comes in, that could change the recommendation that She is making to the Council. In the end, the Council is the decision maker.

Tolbert said much of what they talked about is not in the current ordinance. This ordinance adds this additional information. She wanted to thank the people who worked on the draft: Mayor Carter, his staff, Wiese, McMahon, MM, city attorney who worked on this. He was on the stakeholder group of this Council, so he was more involved than anyone else. They have had a lot of feedback from the constituents. He will ask it to be laid over to August 17 and ask colleagues to bring amendments at that time, hear the amendments, and then have a public hearing on that day.

Councilmember Prince said she is not sure who she should address the questions to. She thanked Tolbert and staff. This has been a huge issue. To Noecker's questions, it seems the amendments ask processes. She is wondering if we need a fiscal note. It seems like adding processes would require an increase in staff. Brendmoen responded the processes should continue to be streamlined as we move forward. The existing processes are cumbersome and take a lot of time, and it takes staff to make the streamlining.

Councilmember Jalali stated this task force and resulting language was an exhausting process. She cares about the realities of governing. This is a starting point. There are elements in the ordinance right now that could get cleaned up and would get addressed by the language being addressed today. IT is important that are policies are clear and renters are as empowered as landlord. She is not supportive of this ordinance. Having the level of exemption for low-income projects would negatively impact renters who use Section 8 vouchers. Renters in subsidized housing and people in other types of housing. These are the renters who need rent statiliation the most and they are being cut out. It will harm BIPOC and low income renters and it needs to get addressed. She represents renters who live in new constructions. If they are not getting rent stabilization, then what do they get. She represent renter who live in new construction. Buildings exist now that were not there when she was running. (She mentioned the low income housing projects.) All of these things need to get addressed if you want to exclude new construction. Tenant notification has been talked about. Tenants should know when their landlord is applying for an exemption. She will be engaging very closely with this policy. She is thankful for an August 17 layover. This is a lot to digest.

Councilmember Noecker thanked Tolbert and Jalali. They need the time to dig in. This is a draft. Many of the ideas and questions raised she shares. She thinks it is important to talk about why we are proposing these amendments. It is important to address the wills of the voters. It is clear that there are problems. They have a moral narrative to produce housing. That is not happening right now. They need the development. The biggest concerns is that tenants are protected and making it as clear and easy as possible. This ordinance will spur development in places where it is already working, they don't need to change where it is working.

Prince said she is grateful they are considering amendments. When this passed on November 2, a 100 unit in her ward was cancelled. They had a closing date of November 12. They lost 100 units and it was purchased by an investor. The next person she heard from was a really good landlord who was mission driven to offer affordable housing. He had a 12 unit building and sold them because he couldn't work with this. Those were buildings she knew very well. The 8% rent increase, she has met with a few tenants about issues with code enforcement. If you don't believe in landlords is a terrible way to go. We cannot afford the staff to do a thorough process.

The City of Oakland, there is a $100 charge on every apartment unit in Oakdale. They fund this through the fees to hire appropriate staff to fund the program. The Cambric Apartments, 113 units of senior housing, heavily subsidized, TIF, 4% money, home funds, STAR money. They just notified all the tenants that rent is going up 8%. To say the rent stabilization is working for tenants and landlords is a delusion. This ordinance is severely hurting us. Voters voted for a 3% rent cap. They are not doing anything to change the 3% rent cap. Was there any voter in the booth could see the whole text. She guarantees that the average voter did not know they were voting for the strictest rent control ordinance in the world. This is the only City that has this ordinance. Theirs go further. When the study was done in Minneapolis, the average increase in Minneapolis was about 1.3%. This ordinance set out to solve problems that it is not creating in ways that the voters never anticipated. That is why she strongly supports trying to make this work for everybody who is currently being hurt by it.

Brendmoen asked about building permits on rental properties. Wiese said it depends on how you are looking at the data. She will give them all of it. January through March was a huge year.

Brendmoen said they know they need to build more units. When they received the presentation from CURA, the important part was the 3% cap. There are some exceptions. She is a co-sponsor. She will spend her time in the next few weeks to encourage new constructions. A 20-year exemption is a good starting place. She appreciates the comments. Their goal is to have one public hearing.

Tolbert said they have a lot of work to do. He thanked Adam Yust, his legislative aide, for all his work. Tolbert appreciates everyone's thought. They have a lot of work to do and today is a good starting point. He moved to lay it over to August 17 for a public hearing.

Councilmember Prince moved to close the public hearing and to deny the application.

Councilmember Jalali asked the reason for denying it. Prince responded that maybe there should be a staff report.

Bill Dermody, Planning and Economic Development, said they usually don't have denial recommendations from Planning Commission on rezoning. He showed some maps of the area and explained the zoning of the area. The Planning Commission represented denial unanimously because of spot zoning. It is illegal to have spot zoning in Minnesota. This is zoned for duplexes. It is a duplex. Everything in the neighborhood with the same size is zoned that way. The Planning Commission feels that this would be a great site for a triplex, which is what this applicant wants to do. Because of the site zoning issue, it is not appropriate to do it through this rezoning. Rather, through the 1 to 4 unit housing study that is forthcoming to the Planning Commission this year and later to the City Council so all of these 5,000 square foot lots are allowed to have triplexes.

Jalali said it more clear now.

Council President Brendmoen said they have tidied up their processes. There is a motion to close the public hearing and deny the application.

Council Meeting Information

The City Council is paperless which saves the environment and reduces expenses. The agendas and Council files are all available on the Web (see below). Council members use mobile devices to review the files during the meeting. Using a mobile device greatly reduces costs since most agendas, including the documents attached to files, are over 1000 pages when printed.

Web

Meetings are available on the Council's website. Email notification and web feeds (RSS) of newly released minutes, agendas, and meetings are available by subscription. Visit www.stpaul.gov/council for meeting videos and updated copies of the agendas, minutes, and supporting documents.

Cable

Meetings are live on St Paul Channel 18 and replayed at various times. Check your local listings.
