There are a number of affordable housing projects in the pipeline requiring housing revenue bond financing beyond Saint Paul's current issuance capacity. With the proposed Federal tax bill potentially eliminating private activity bonds including housing revenue bonds in 2018, the City of Minneapolis has agreed to transfer $18 million of their bonding authority that they are unable to use this year to the City of Saint Paul. If private activity bonds are retained, Saint Paul will return a like amount to the City of Minneapolis from our 2018 bonding authority allocation.

An equivalent amount of bonding authority will be transferred back to these partners from Saint Paul's 2018 allocation if private activity bonds are retained.

The amended resolution includes the Como by the Lake project. In the event MHFA is able to fund Como by the Lake this year through their bonding pool, we will return a like amount in 2019.
